

When nothing stops it.

The SAVE Act push, the record it belongs to, and the dates ahead.

July 2026 · working draft · every claim dated and sourced · no predictions

The plan is being said out loud

JUN 19

Bannon, on air: the new intelligence chief's job is "to get to the bottom of the 2020 stolen election."

JUN 24

The President cancels a bipartisan bill signing: SAVE is "a National Emergency."

JUN 25

Bannon, to The Daily Signal: it is "seared into his soul that elections will continue to be stolen until we pass SAVE America."

JUN 30

A guest on his broadcast, next day: "Stop talking about the SAVE Act and do a national security emergency for elections."

JUN 29 • the plan, verbatim:

"You have to lay the predicate out... I believe that we have a task force... John Solomon... but also Pulte... You would have to make the case that it was for national security. I think that case can be made."

SAID PLAINLY

No emergency law reaches election administration — scholars have catalogued roughly 150 emergency powers; none touch it. The last elections order was struck down in court. The White House denies an emergency order is being considered.

The predicate-to-order pathway is their own broadcaster's description — not an announced plan.

It is the part of the plan you can see.

The bill: documentary proof of citizenship — papers in hand — to register or re-register to vote. It cannot pass the Senate, so it is being restated as an emergency, with the groundwork assignment named on the air.

WORKING DRAFT • JULY 2026

The same names, then and now

Steve Bannon

THEN Jan. 5, 2021, on air: “All hell is going to break loose tomorrow.”

NOW June 29, 2026, on air: “You have to lay the predicate out.”

John Solomon

THEN 2019: the channel through which the Ukraine claims entered print, around the editorial checks.

NOW Inside the White House, assembling “voting machine” documents for declassification (reported June 30, 2026).

Cleta Mitchell

THEN Jan. 2, 2021: on the call when Georgia’s secretary of state was asked to “find” the votes.

NOW June 2026: back on the same broadcasts, pressing the same case.

Joe diGenova

THEN 2020: campaign lawyer promoting the fraud claims.

NOW Counselor to the Attorney General (sworn in April 20, 2026), leading DOJ’s ‘grand conspiracy’ probe of the officials who investigated them — grand juries active in Florida and D.C.

Every role above is documented — statements, appointments, the call recording, the court record. The cast is the same. The offices are new. That is the difference that matters.

In his own words

“In four years, you don’t have to vote again.
We’ll have it fixed so good, you’re not going to have to vote.”

July 26, 2024 · on camera

“...the desperately needed SAVE AMERICA ACT, which I consider to be a National Emergency.”

June 24, 2026 · in writing, canceling a housing bill that passed 358–32 and 85–5 — and on July 10, in writing again: “I will not sign the Housing Bill... in PROTEST”

“...all voters must provide a little thing called proof of citizenship. And there will be no mail-in ballots, except for illness, disability, military deployment, or travel.”

July 4, 2026, National Mall · on camera

“The Republican Party will never win another Election. I will, sadly, be the last Republican President... TERMINATE THE FILIBUSTER, AND IMMEDIATELY APPROVE THE SAVE AMERICA ACT.”

June 18, 2026 · in writing — restated in softer form July 5

Two on video. Two over his signature.

Six escalations in three weeks

- JUN 17 Holds FISA renewal hostage to SAVE — “I will not approve FISA without THE SAVE AMERICA ACT going along with it”
- JUN 24 Cancels a housing-bill signing over SAVE · hardens it July 10 into a refusal to sign at all — “in PROTEST” — and the bill becomes law without him, 12:01 a.m. July 11
- JUN 30 House rule attaching SAVE to the defense bill collapses; the NDAA stalls
- JUL 4 Raises it from the National Mall in the 250th-anniversary address
- JUL 5 Renews the filibuster demand in writing — “TERMINATE THE FILIBUSTER... I don’t want to be the last Republican President!”
- JUL 7 Reverses his prior refusal — endorses filibuster-proof budget reconciliation for SAVE

The Senate has killed it twice. The push is climbing over housing, surveillance law, and the defense budget to stay first.

And the chamber itself is jammed

~218

the Republican House majority — razor-thin, several vacancies, near-unanimity required to pass any rule

2 weeks

of scheduled votes scrapped in a row over SAVE — the week of June 23, then the June 30 rule collapse, 198–224

“Fire the parliamentarian”

his demand, refused by the Senate leader — who says the votes “aren’t there” and won’t be before November

Regular order cannot pass the bill. Hold that thought — because what follows is what got built instead.

The bill failed twice. The machinery didn't wait.

run proof laws for 2026 — AZ, SD, UT, WY, MS (newest, July 1: 1 in 5 Mississippians holds a passport; a passport costs $165) — with more enacted and awaiting rollout, and New Hampshire's struck down this May — the court voided its elimination of the sworn-affidavit route, without ruling on proof-of-citizenship itself Executive order • federal database • state laws • referral lists — each channel official, none of it requiring the bill to pass.

Some of it is not a warning. It already happened.

Georgia, 2025

~471,000 registrations cancelled — about 6% of the state's rolls, per state records and the litigation file. Everyone got a mailed notice. Roughly 1 in 100 fixed it on their own.

Alabama, 2024

3,251 flagged as noncitizens 84 days out. Most were eligible. It took a federal court — a Trump appointee — to restore them.

New Hampshire, 2025

Women turned away over marriage-name mismatches. A divorced woman refused a ballot while her ex-husband voted. The law was struck down in May 2026 — after the elections it governed.

The file itself

Every flag list and referral — including the blocked ones — has already built the official-sounding record that “noncitizens are on the rolls.” It exists now. It exists now — built to be quoted.

The damage doesn't start in November. It is accruing now, in the paperwork.

Who the papers reach first: women

69 million American women hold a birth certificate that no longer matches their legal name — today, before any bill. Where the paper requirements are in force, that mismatch is already the wall: five states, one federal database, and at least 244 voters turned away — the documented name-mismatch refusals among them, women.

15 to 1

A federal court's finding, May 28, 2026: the state's inability to search out-of-state marriage and divorce records "affects women more than men by a 15:1 margin." (Coalition for Open Democracy v. Scanlan, D.N.H.)

≥244 turned away

New Hampshire voters, 2025, under its proof law — most for citizenship papers; the documented name-mismatch refusals were women, among them a divorced woman denied for missing divorce paperwork. The court voided the law's elimination of the affidavit route after the elections it governed.

69 million

A present-day count of the mismatch, not a projection — the requirement, not the mismatch, is what varies by state. 79% of married women take a spouse's name (84% with hyphenation — Pew, 2023; CAP estimate). National anchor: 21.3 million citizens lack ready proof (Brennan/UMD).

The context is documented, and it is not new terrain. This burden arrives after four years of institutional reversals for women — Dobbs, June 24, 2022, first among them — and lands on the electorate's most mobilized bloc. Scholars of democratic decline treat the pattern as structural: "misogyny and authoritarianism are not just common comorbidities but mutually reinforcing ills" (Chenoweth & Marks, Foreign Affairs, 2022); the V-Dem indices treat erosion of women's rights as a leading indicator of backsliding.

And the paper trail itself has a history: until the Cable Act reforms (1922–1940), an American woman who married a non-citizen could lose her citizenship outright — winning it back took birth, marriage, and divorce records. The mismatch being screened today is the residue of that law.

Never undone.

Read the rows: most attempts get stopped. They keep coming faster anyway. And the only lasting harm sits in the bottom row, where nothing stood in the way.

None of this is alleged. It is adjudicated.

Crimes were committed

Four guilty pleas stand in Georgia — including two felonies — for the 2020 scheme. Fourteen seditious-conspiracy convictions — ten by jury, four by guilty plea — the first won at trial since 1995, under a Civil War-era statute. Two White House advisers served prison time for contempt.

It was charged as a racketeering enterprise

A Georgia grand jury indicted the 2020 election scheme under the state's RICO statute — the law written for organized crime. The case was later dismissed after the prosecutor's removal. The pleas stand.

The lies cost real money

$787.5 million paid to the voting-machine company (settlement, April 2023). $148 million to two Georgia election workers (verdict, December 2023). Two disbarments. A court: of the Dominion claims: "none of the Statements relating to the 2020 election are true."

And the current conduct is unlawful

A federal judge, June 22: the government "knowingly trampled on the privacy rights of American citizens in a manner that threatens the sacred right to vote." A chief federal judge counted at least 96 court orders violated by one agency in one month — across 74 cases (Chief Judge Schiltz, D. Minn., January 28, 2026).

Pardons and commutations erased the punishments. They did not erase the verdicts, the pleas, or the findings. Those are the record — past tense, settled, quotable.

The offices that stopped it are changing hands

The enforcement office switched sides

The DOJ unit that stopped the 2024 purges fell from ~30 lawyers to a handful (Justice Connection tally, 2025) — and now argues for the purges.

Election machinery, new occupants

An acting intelligence director — unconfirmed, serving past the midterms — assigned to “election security,” with a former party election operative as chief of staff (installed June 19, 2026, unconfirmed). His predecessor as DNI personally attended the January 28 FBI raid on a county election office holding 2020 ballots — asked by the President, she testified, to observe.

The 2020 file, reopened from inside

A White House task force gathering documents on 2020 “ballot irregularities, potential voting machine issues” for declassification; a special prosecutor’s “grand conspiracy” probe of the officials who investigated 2016–2020.

The court record, rewritten

77 pardons for the fake-electoral scheme — the one part of 2020 the referees had fully answered.

And on July 9, 2026, the Election Assistance Commission — the office that certifies voting systems and controls the federal registration form — was emptied to zero commissioners: two fired by email “on behalf of President Donald J. Trump,” one resignation. The White House: “They will be replaced.” A March 2025 executive order had directed the EAC to add proof of citizenship to the federal form; the commissioners never voted to do it. Every item here is on the record.

Belief at the top of a government is an operational fact

Nobody is asking you to believe the theory. The theory lost in every court, cost a network $787.5 million, and ended careers.

You are being asked to notice something harder to dismiss: the people running the government still act on it.

The President re-posted the Venezuela machine claims on January 4, 2026 — the day after Maduro's capture. A White House task force is gathering "voting machine" documents on his authority. A federal grand jury in Florida is working the 2020 file. The intelligence director personally attended the January 28 raid on a county's 2020 ballots.

They take it seriously. That is the fact that matters — belief buys subpoenas, task forces, and raids, whatever the theory's merits.

SAID PLAINLY

No official has claimed Maduro proves anything about 2020 — the indictment is drug charges only. This slide asserts no conspiracy.

It asserts a pattern of conduct, all of it on the record: the same story, the same people, now holding government instruments.

Absurd premises with state power attached produce real actions on real dates. That is the whole warning.

You don't have to take the theory seriously. You have to take seriously that they do — because that is what guides what they do next.

SPRING '27

Any definitive high-court ruling on the appeals now filed would likely land after this election — an inference from the dockets, marked as one

Two dates outside any court's reach

SEPTEMBER 30

Funding expires. A shutdown is leverage no court can review — it is politics, not law. He has said, in writing and by phone, that SAVE is what he would close the government over. Last year's shutdowns ran 123 days in total (CRFB tally). Two of twelve funding bills have passed the House; zero the Senate.

JANUARY 3

The Constitution makes each new House the judge of its own members' elections; no court reviews the judgment. In practice: contested seat certifications from November, arriving before a chamber that reviews itself. No member has threatened to use it, and this deck predicts nothing. It notes only that the "contaminated rolls" file such a channel would consume is being built now — and the answer to a records claim is a better record, kept in advance.

The record's one consistent finding: lasting harm happens where nothing stands in the way. Everything else on this calendar still has someone standing there — these two dates don't. That is what the title asks.

What the bluster is covering

The thing in progress is not a bill. It is a records case against November, assembled in advance while the bill fails loudly in the foreground.

The rolls are being worked now

67 million screened, hundreds of thousands cancelled, five state laws in force — a system under competing court orders, still running.

The offices are being converted now

The enforcement unit argues the other side; the 2020 investigators are the ones under investigation.

The justification is being written now

A task force on “voting machine” documents, a Florida grand jury on the 2020 file, the Venezuela claims re-posted from the top.

The leverage dates are set

Funding expires September 30; the deciding ruling waits until after the election; the new House judges its own seats.

The thing in progress is not a bill. It is a records case against November, assembled in advance — under competing court orders and still running. The bill failing loudly is what it sounds like while it works.

One alarm, reserved for this

“The federal government has knowingly trampled
on the privacy rights of American citizens in a manner that threatens the sacred right to vote.”

A sitting federal judge. In a ruling. June 22, 2026. About a system still running under competing court orders.

Not our words. Not a prediction. The one alarm this deck sounds — because it is the one the record sounds itself.

What can be done with this record is a separate document.

Dates and sources

Every claim above traces to a court record, government document, official data, or named reporting:

the on-camera July 26, 2024 and July 4, 2026 statements (C-SPAN; Newsweek transcript); the dated June 18–July 7, 2026 chronology (Truth Social; NBC, The Hill, Roll Call); the June 20–30 War Room statements and the June 29 “predicate” remarks verbatim (Media Matters transcripts, June 29–30, 2026; reach per Brookings, “Audible Reckoning,” 2023); Bannon’s January 5, 2021 statement (H. DHS, D.D.C.) and the July 7 competing order (N.D. Fla.); the 96-orders finding (D. Minn., January 2026); the Georgia pleas, the 14 seditious-conspiracy convictions (10 jury verdicts, 4 guilty pleas — DOJ), the Fulton RICO indictment (O.C.G.A. §16-14-4) and its 2025 dismissal; the Dominion settlement (April 2023) and Freeman/Moss judgment (December 2023); the disbarments (N.Y., July 2024; D.C., September 2024); DHS/USCIS screening figures (AP, NPR) and county records (ProPublica, court filings); Georgia cancellation data (~478K flagged, ~471K cancelled — Secretary of State / AJC / litigation record); the Alabama 2024 and New Hampshire 2025 court records; the 10th Circuit’s Kansas findings; the October 30, 2024 Supreme Court order; the November 2025 pardons; the FY2027 funding record (Congress.gov); the women’s-burden record (Coalition for Open Democracy v. Scanlan, D.N.H., May 28, 2026 — the 15:1 finding; NH Campaign for Voting Rights tally; CAP/Pew 2023 name-change data; Brennan/UMD 21.3M survey; Chenoweth & Marks, Foreign Affairs, 2022; Cable Act history, National Archives); the June 17 FISA post and June 18 filibuster post (Truth Social; CNBC, Newsweek, The Hill); the June 30 rule vote, 198–224, 14 Republicans crossing (The Hill, Breaking Defense); the parliamentary demand and Thune’s refusal (The Hill, Fox Business, June 2026); the Schiltz order, 96 violations across 74 cases (D. Minn., Jan. 28, 2026; Bloomberg Law, NPR); the diGenova appointment and probe (NYT, CBS, Washington Examiner, April 2026); the Gabbard raid attendance and Senate testimony (CNN, AJC, March 18, 2026); the War Room and Daily Signal quotes (Media Matters transcripts; The Daily Signal, June 25, 2026); the EAC removals and the “They will be replaced” statement (ProPublica, CNN, NBC, July 9, 2026; the March 2025 EO directing the federal-form change); the July 10, 2026 refusal-to-sign post (Truth Social, per CNN, Axios, NPR, Mediaite verbatim) and the bill becoming law without signature (CBS, NPR, July 11, 2026)

No election outcome is predicted. No motive is attributed — this reads statements, records, and the calendar. The strongest opposing case
